What went well?

What should we keep doing? What should we celebrate? Where did we make progress?

effective infographics are composed of few different attributes

Brighten up the celebration of children's day at school with this awesomeinfographics for google slides and PPT.

pop culture trends. Music, entertainment, sports,fashion-these are great sources for infographic ideas.

1.Outline your goals for creating your infographic

> 2.collect data for you infographic

What ideas do you have?

What ideas do you have for future work together? Where do you see opportunities to improve? What has untapped potential?

[Topic of the retrospective]

your goal is to communicate a lot of data in a simple easy-tounderstand way.

infographic by paba john,s which uses incorrect data visualization.

Here's an example

of a bad

customer service teams work hard to keep customers satisfied but can gat frustrated by how longe it can take to connect with customers.

What went poorly?

Where did we have problems? What was frustrating to us or others? What held us back?

> use a circle layout to show a cyclical process.

infographics help cover "heavy "topics in and enjoyable way.

An infographic can we adapded to communicate all kinds of ideas and stories in a fun and easy way.

A progress

infographic is a visual representation of

the progress made

towards a goal.

*****=

you need to define what you want do achieve,who you want to reach, and how you want to present your data and massage.

generally, infographics are used for one or more of the following resons: Illustrating data.

1.only include necessary content.

> 2.stick with two dimensional infographic.

A clear storyline with a clean and wellstructured layout-a layout that support people browsing the information that you can use it when you are asking someone to prolong a meeting beyont the time originally allotted.

How should we take action?

What do you believe we should do next? What specific things should we change? What should extend beyond this meeting?

See an example